

0. Training Day

Before they start their adventure, the girls want to learn how to use their abilities. Let's see what they've got!

IMPORTANT NOTE: This is a tutorial mission for those who feel they need it, and no items or GP found in this mission should carry over to the normal campaign.

X = The girls start here.

*Welcome to Hunter/x Quest. In this game, you will take the role of one of the famous Hunters, fighting demons and saving humanity.

You will be given an objective before every quest, and must move, engage in combat, solve problems, and carefully search your surroundings to achieve victory.

To begin, you find yourself in a corridor of the training halls. Find an entrance into the training rooms to begin.*

A = Before you appear two Goblins: the least dangerous of the demons you will encounter. Take them out with your Standard Attacks! You never run out of Standard Attacks, unlike your Abilities.

When this encounter is finished but before searching, say:

If you used any Rest abilities, you can choose to Rest instead of searching for treasure. This choice is always available to you when you finish an encounter. Resting instead will recover all your used Rest abilities, but not your Quest ability if you used it.

B = These are the slightly more dangerous Orcs and skeletons: also easily dispatched, but pack a bit more of a wallop. Skeletons can even attack diagonally! Mira and Zoey, if you have your Encounter ability, it might be a good time to use it to clear more than one enemy at the same time!

C = In this room is a Fimir, an intimidating foe that can absorb multiple hits. It's tempting to use your Quest ability to take him out quickly, but remember you only get to use it once per quest! There's sure to be more fearsome enemies deeper in. Find another way to take him out. Rumi, your Encounter ability can make some of your dice rolls guaranteed hits, which might help here. Mira, you have a Taunt ability that can force the Fimir to attack you instead of one of your squishier friends.

D = This room seems to be empty. Now might be a good time to use any healing abilities you have to recover, if you need it.

E = This mummy gets the drop on you with a surprise attack! Zoey, now might be a good time to use your dodge or counterattack ability. They are unique in that they can be used on the enemy's turn.

When the mummy is defeated and the player searches, instead of pulling a treasure card:

Sometimes when you do a search after an encounter, you find a special event instead of pulling a random treasure. In this case, the mummy left behind a Potion of Concentrated Honmoon! This is very rare and valuable: only a couple exist in the world. Drinking this will restore all of your used Abilities, even the Quest and Rest abilities.

F = Sometimes you'll find treasure chests. If you walk up to it, you can search it for special treasure. But beware! Sometimes they have traps. You can use your action to Search for a trap before you loot it.

The chest has a dart trap, that deals 1 BP of damage if not disabled. Inside, it contains 3 Potions of Healing. The potions of healing can recover your lost damage, and since you can use them at any time they can even save you from being knocked unconscious!

G = There's lots of enemies here, but they seem to be stupified! A good opportunity to try Mira's crowd control attacks, or Zoey's ability to hit multiple targets.

These enemies neither move nor attack. On Gwi-Ma's turn, say The enemies look dazed and confused.

H = A fearsome foe! Throw everything you've got at this Chaos Warrior! This is a good time to use your Quest abilities: you get the feeling this training session is almost over. Rumi is particularly well suited to fight single, strong monsters with her Quest ability that can dramatically increase the number of dice she rolls in combat. And remember, potions you found in this tutorial aren't kept, so use them all!

I = You find the staircase out of the training grounds. Your test is complete: you're ready for anything.

Wandering Monster in this Quest is: Goblin
